"LAW WEST OF THE PECOS."

A waggish lawyer in San Antonio gave him an old copy of the Revised Statutes, containing many laws that had long been repealed, and when some embryo solon would oall his attention to this, he would say: "Look here, sonny, Lawyer Teel give me that book, and he has forgot more law than you ever knowed. What he says is good enough for me, and as long as I am Jedge that book is the law west of the Pecos."

There is no doubt about his having sentenced the first murderer brought before him to be hanged, nor of his indignation on oping told that he could only commit, and that it was the province of a higher court to inflict the death penalty.

"But there ain't no court higher than me this side of Stockton, and there's no sense in putting this State to all that expense when everybody knows he ought to be hung." Pittsburg, Pa., March 3.—River 8.2 feet; falling owly. Clear and cold. C. S. Titus Reinstated.

New York, March 2.—The Union Boat Club to-day reinstated C. S. Titus, the carsman. The club passed a resolution which recticed that there had been an irregularity in his expulsion, and adding:
"That the said expussion be rescinded solely on the ground of such technical irregularity."

President Signott of the club said to-night:

Anneed him.

The court clerk was Roy's bartender, and a monte dealer was Constable.

When a prisoner was brought, in the court would order a monte table cleared, take the dealer's chair, and court was open. His usual manner of procedure was to say:

"Jim. clear off your table for a minute, until I find out if this sport has any dinero" (money). If he had, it was soon in possession of the court. If he had none, he was discharged, for there was no jail, except a mesquite tree with a chain attached, and only murder and horse-stealing cases were sent to Fort Stockton.

As soon as the petition for the new court was forwarded to Austin Roy left for San Antonio, and while every one knew that both his interests and inclinations were against the innovation, no one thought he didacy of President Diaz for re-election. At meetings held in Chihushus, Colima, Vera Cruz and other large cities resolutions were unanimously adopted commending the administration of President Diaz, and asking that he accept the candidacy again. At a meeting in this city the new party was organized which will be known as the Liberal Union party. The meeting adopted statutes and by-laws and formed a permanent organization.

The party will hold a convention in June next for the purpose of nominating a candidate for President. General Diaz will be the candidate named.

Preparations are being made throughout the Republic on an extensive scale for the celebration on Thursday next of the thirty-sixth anniversary of the victory of the Republic's troops under General Diaz at Puehia, which occurred April 2, 1857. The celebrations will be made occasions for an extraordinary demonstration in favor of the candidacy of President Diaz for re-election. Vera Cruz and other large cities resolutions both his interests and inclinations were against the innovation, no one thought he could prevent it. Neither did Roy, but he decided to be the Judge. He called on San Antonio politicians who were under obligations to him and told them they must get to work at once and "bead off them dudes." They were nothing loath to pay their debts by making Roy a Justice 250 miles away.

IRONCLAD JAG. They were nothing loath to pay their decise by making Roy a Justice 250 miles away.

IRONCLAD JAG.

To celebrate his newly acquired honors Roy took on a jag that for durability and strenuosity is referred to as a recordbreaker for West Texas.

The news of his coming had preceded him, and the whole population of "Vinegarone" turned out to welcome the King to his own. Free drinks were the rule for the entire night. The men primarily responsible for the new aspect of judicial affairs were dazed for awhile, and at first decided to send a delegation to the Governor to protest, but finally decided to make an effort to get the court under the infuence of the law-abiding element rather than permit him to be guided by the law-breakers.
